Notes:

Highest paid to lowest paid. Most part-time, contract, agency, cash in hand, informal economy. Because of this I am still working to make contributions so that I can claim the full pension at 67. One full-time permanent job that made everyone redundant after two years. Worst boss: nepotistic middle class woman at an internet multinational, shamed me for claiming paid lunch hour, my first job after years on the dole, I didn't know that was a no-no. Now: self-employed with side-hustles. I have worked as an artist throughout. The work has stayed alive.
