

Jobs I have had from age 12

Christchurch choir, Frome (we would get £1 each for singing at a wedding)

Sorting fuses into boxes. Home working offered by my mum's work at Beswicks fuse factory, Frome.

Working on the till at International Supermarket, which then became Gateway (at a time when you had to manually tap in and sometimes know all the prices)

Working shifts (6-2pm 2-10pm) stacking and packing cream and yogurts at Staplemead Creamery, Frome.

Working at the Cuprinol factory in Frome sorting out damaged tins of varnish

Washer up in Cuprinol factory canteen, Frome (before 'moving up' to sandwich maker)

Stacking cheese at the cheese factory, Frome

Cleaner for a house cleaning agency, Frome

Lifeguard at Frome leisure centre

Working behind the bar at The Loft, Frome

Preparing and serving hog roast for events and weddings around Somerset (Even though I'm vegetarian)

Mucking out sheep sheds (at the time considered a monumental low point in my working life, before I knew any better... or worse)

Volunteer and events organiser for Positive Action on Cancer, Frome

Working on a burger van at the car boot sale near Frome (one of the best and funniest jobs I ever had and cash in hand)

Christmas job on the till at WH Smiths in Bath (The worst uniform)

Ironing clothes for a fashion house (I really like ironing)

Night time washing up in a bar/cafe/club (Free beer and food)

Collecting eggs in a massive chicken house (I lasted one day)

Life model for artists and art students
